

Please Join Us For A Webinar: Putting Youth on the Map

December 6, 2012, 12-1 pm

UC DAVIS
CENTER FOR REGIONAL CHANGE

University of California
Agriculture and Natural Resources

California wants and needs for its youth to thrive -- not merely to survive or face fewer problems. But how do we know whether our young people are doing well? How can we locate places where they might need additional support?

To address these questions the UC Davis Center for Regional Change and UC Cooperative Extension have created and mapped Youth Well-Being and Youth Vulnerability Indices for the entire state; these indices and associated data will be available through a new online data-mapping website. The webinar will introduce the website, review the indices and highlight ways this new resource can be used to inform policy development, investment, planning, and advocacy on behalf of youth.

Register to participate (click the "register" button) at <http://tinyurl.com/PYOM1>

Password: youth

Event#: 966143331

Can't make it? Register anyway to receive the website link after the webinar.